

The National Campaign to Prevent Teen and Unplanned Pregnancy is looking for a Communications and Media Intern for the Fall 2017 semester. We're looking for someone who may be able to stay with us for more than 1 semester—possibly up to three, if both parties wish to extend the term of the internship. This position can either be a paid internship or the intern must be able to receive school credit. We are looking for someone who can work between 30 and 40 hours a week—but hours are based on the intern's availability.

About The National Campaign:

Our mission is to improve the lives and future prospects of children and families and, in particular, to help ensure that children are born into stable families. Our strategy is to prevent teen pregnancy and unplanned pregnancy, especially among single, young adults. When we are successful, child and family wellbeing will improve. There will be less poverty, more opportunities for young men and women to complete their education or achieve other life goals, fewer abortions, and a stronger nation.

Our web properties include our corporate site, TheNationalCampaign.org, Bedsider.org, our birth control network for 20something women and StayTeen.org, our online community for teens. Please look at these sites and be familiar with them before applying.

About the Communications and Media Department:

In addition to traditional media relations and communications efforts, the Campaign also works with entertainment media to get messages about pregnancy, contraception, prevention, and consequences integrated into popular media. We aim to reach teens, young adults, and parents through the media they like to consume—including TV, magazines, websites, and more. We do this by cultivating relationships and partnerships with media leaders, including writers, producers, executives, and others, educating them about our issues, and collaborating with them to include our messages in their content.

Job Description:

Internship duties include: curating daily news clips to send to staff members, drafting press releases, staying on top of trends in popular culture and the media industry; assisting in the planning and execution of our yearly meetings; writing about our issues for partners and colleagues; drafting social media language for Bedsider, Stay Teen, and The National Campaign; some other administrative duties and other duties as assigned.

Qualifications:

The ideal candidate will be a college student available to intern for up to three semesters (pending agreement by both the intern and the Campaign). A passion for popular culture is essential as well as a strong interest in news, TV, movies, blogs, social media, and "the next big thing." Watching and taking notes on TV shows like Teen Mom, The Fosters, and other young adult media is a large part of this role. Must have strong organizational skills and a good sense of humor as well as strong writing skills. We are looking for a self-starter who can solve problems creatively, multi-task productively, and pay meticulous attention to details.

To Apply:

To apply for this internship, send a resume, thoughtful cover letter, and attached application to intern@thenc.org and let us know why you'd be a good fit for this position. Include at the bottom of your cover letter two of your favorite TV shows and where you consume most of your news. Please also include at least one writing sample. Please include "Communications and Media Intern" in the subject line.

Application for Internship

In order to be considered for an internship you must submit a signed and completed application form along with a cover letter and copy of your resume. All application materials must be submitted in a complete packet; incomplete applications will not be reviewed.
